10 OCTOBER 2022 (ACCRA, GHANA) - Reggae Master Roots Ambassador, Kwame Bediako, returns to Ghana in January 2023 to continue promoting his latest 12 track album and single entitled "World Disorder" via Wan Afrika Productions/BSM Publishing.

With participation from Sidney Mills - Steel Pulse/SPI Music, Aston Barrett Jr. - The Wailers, Georges Kouakou - Alpha Blondy and other notables, this album is a top-notch collection of conscious roots reggae with themes exploring the human condition and spiritual integrity.

The title track "World Disorder" is a hard-hitting contemporary roots indictment of the powers that struggle to administrate a world full of chaos. About the song Kwame commented, "I wrote "World Disorder" out of an appeal for an end to the chaos governing our collective world. There is a hunger for order and we have yet to achieve peace with justice. It is a continual struggle to change hearts for this betterment so this is in my small way a plea for just that."

Other notable songs on the album include Budumburam, a witty and descriptive lyric about permanently displaced peoples of West Afrikan conflict, and "Stand Ready", an anthem for those committed to the spiritual struggle. Kwame's talent as a lyricist shines through all of the tracks with conscious metaphors, truthful criticisms, honest questioning of self, and spiritual realization.

Kwame Bediako is best known for the classic song 'One Man No Dub' from his "Forward Ever" album which is still garnering airplay 20 years after its release. His pioneering masterpiece, "How Sweet It Is" re-released as a 25th Anniversary Special Edition, is culturally focused on themes of pan-africanism and colonial context.

Kwame Bediako's entire catalogue is now available for streaming on all major platforms including Spotify, Apple Music, and Youtube Music.

"Kwame's high energy, nonstop performance is truly spellbinding." - Indianapolis Museum of Art
